| Remarks Where a radioactive material has (a) subsidiary hazard(s): 1. The substance shall be allocated to packing group I, II or III, if appropriate, by application of the packing group criteria provided in part 2 corresponding to the nature of the predominant subsidiary hazard; 2. Packages shall be labelled with subsidiary hazard labels corresponding to each subsidiary hazard exhibited by the material; corresponding placards shall be affixed to cargo transport units in accordance with the relevant provisions of 5.3.1; 3. For the purposes of documentation and package marking, the proper shipping name shall be supplemented with the name of the constituents which most predominantly contribute to this (these) subsidiary hazard(s) and which shall be enclosed in parenthesis; 4. The dangerous goods transport document shall indicate the class or division of the subsidiary hazard and, where assigned, the packing group as required by 5.4.1.4.1.4 and 5.4.1.4.1.5. For packing, see also 4.1.9.1.5 (SP 172). "Fissile-excepted" applies only to those fissile materials and packages containing fissile material which are excepted in accordance with 2.7.2.3.5 (SP 317). In the case of non-fissile or fissile-excepted uranium hexafluoride, the material shall be classified under UN 2978 (SP 325). |                           |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                                 |                        |                                                      |  |
